

PARENT RESOURCES

2021-2022 School Year

Welcome Back to the 21-22 School year!

As our students return to school, it is important to understand your rights as a parent and how you can help maximize the learning environments for all students, especially those with disabilities. The San Antonio Special Programs Coop (SASPC) works with your district to support, evaluate, and educate your children. The SASPC will be offering parent training throughout the school year via Zoom from 11 am to 12 pm. The parent training will cover a variety of topics and can be accessed from our website at the link below.

SASPC Purpose:

The San Antonio Special Programs Co-op serves charter schools and ISD's across South and Central Texas supporting nearly 1,000 students qualifying for special education and related services. Our staff of educational specialists, speech pathologists, educational diagnosticians, licensed school psychologists, and other related service specialists is dedicated to providing exceptional individualized service. According to both federal and state law, the goal of special education is to assist students with disabilities in becoming as independent as possible as they move through primary and secondary education. Moreover, the law requires each student become employable, if possible, when they leave the educational setting. This may include opportunities to pursue post-high school education. Each program and service provided through special education is devoted to these goals.

Your student's school is not able to reach these goals alone. The partnerships built between parents/guardians and local education agencies is imperative to supporting each student's success. All visitors are encouraged to navigate through the resources within this site. If any of our staff may be of service to you, please contact us. We hope you enjoy learning more about the services available through the state, community and our organization.

Our Mission at the SASPC

The mission of The San Antonio Special Programs Co-op is to provide member schools direct and indirect related services, assessment, professional development, resources, instructional support, and the expert guidance needed to create a successful and compliant special education program.

Our Vision at the SASPC

Our vision is to empower member schools to build and maintain a diverse and collaborative atmosphere in which parents, students, schools, and the community work to facilitate educational success by meeting the specialized academic, emotional, and social needs of all eligible students in a respectful and positive learning environment. This unifying vision seeks to inspire students to become productive, independent, self-advocating members of society.
